Business entity reports can be filed online

LINCOLN – Nebraska Secretary of State John Gale says that required reports for business entities can be filed online with his office.

Biennial occupation tax reports of domestic and foreign business corporations, along with the required tax payments, are due March 1 and delinquent by April 15.

Annual reports of limited liability partnerships, along with the required fees, are due April 1 and delinquent by June 1.

The reports can be filed online at <http://ne.gov/go/business>. Payments for the online filings may be made by credit card or electronic check.

Business entities still have the option of filing a paper report.

If a business entity hasn't received its report by Jan. 31, it should contact the Secretary of State's Office to receive the report.

An entity that fails to file its report and pay the required fees will be dissolved, Gale said.

"I would encourage business entities to take advantage of the convenience and ease of filing online," he said. "Online filing also has the benefit of easing the paperwork handled by my office."

The reports are used for the office's database so the public has updated information on business entities.
